WEDDING

GARRIOTT — PEPPARD

In a quiet ceremony which took place at the Calgary Bible Institute, Wednesday, November 5, at 11 a.m., Myrtle Alfrita, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Peppard of Cochrane, became the bride of Harold Leo, third son of Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Garrlott, of Strathmore, Mr. C. Hutchison officiating.

The bride given in marriage by her father was becomingly attired in a navy blue wool suit with matching accessories. Her bouquet consisted of pink roses and carnations. Miss Mildred Peppard and Mr. Mitchell Garrlott were the attendants.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Garrlott left on a short trip to Edmonton, and upon their return will take up residence east of Strathmore.

The Standard joins in best wishes to the young couple.

THE FIRST NAZI REPULSE

Radio announcement that the Nazi drive on Moscow has been stopped dead is striking and glad news.

Desperate losses of men have occurred on both sides, but the Huns are in retreat in at least one area approaching Moscow.

LEST WE FORGET TO REMEMBER

(By James Gasser)

I heard a man,
As soldiers can,
Go marching by my door.

His buttons shone
And when he'd gone
I wished to see him more.

With hasty stride
I stepped outside,
But he had passed from view.
I, pausing not,
The man forgot
As thoughtless humans do.

Oh—Those who serve
Do more deserve
Their lives they give,
That we may live
In freedom safe from cares.

When war is done,
The battle won,
And guns have ceased their noise,
Their friends come out
To sing and shout,
To welcome home the boys.

But though we sing,
Our voices ring,
We never can atone
To those who fell
In that dark hell,
In pain and all alone.

WAR SAVINGS CAMPAIGN

BUY! BUY! BUY!

The arrangements for the War Savings Drive are about complete. The canvassers who will call on the public will be appointed very shortly, and after the Picture Show at Hirtle's Theatre Thursday, November 6th be prepared to meet these good people who will call on you. Buy every last cent's worth of War Savings Certificates that you can afford, and so help to crush Hitler's hordes.

The Picture Show is free and everyone is invited. Pictures to be shown are—Second Year of War; London Can Take It; The New Britain; On To Victory.

Mr. Hirtle has kindly given the theatre for this picture, including light and heat.

THOS. E. WRIGHT, Chairman Lions War Savings Committee.

IN APPRECIATION—

On behalf of the Town Council I wish to extend our thanks to the young people of Strathmore and District for the fine manner in which they conducted themselves during the Halloween celebrations.

It is very gratifying to know that such co-operation can be given in these critical times when it is most essential.

T. S. HUGHES, Mayor.

Some time ago the windmill on the town pump was seriously damaged by a strong wind, and had to be torn down. It has now been replaced with a new one. In the meantime the engine in the pump house had to be brought into action regularly to keep the tank supplied with water.

Mrs. Hillard underwent a major operation at Calgary last week and is progressing favorably.

Mr. Worger and Mr. McKenzie accompanied some of the Trail Rangers on a hike last Saturday down to the old dam. They were able to ford the river without difficulty going, but on their return found the water had risen considerably and had to wade knee deep to get back.

● Gandhi Against Hitler— Mohandas K. Gandhi, the Indian leader who developed the technique of civil disobedience, urges the peoples of invaded and occupied countries to adopt a policy of "non-violence and non-co-operation."

"Even Hitler, whom God sent as a deserved curse on mankind because of their ungodly ways, wouldn't cope with genuine civil disobedience," Gandhi told the United Press in an interview on the occasion of his 73rd birthday.

Gandhi still wants complete independence for India, but he wants Britain to win the war, too.

● Alan S. Nicholson, Canadian timber controller, at Ottawa urged 200 lumbermen, representative of all parts of the Dominion, to operate their plants at capacity to meet wartime lumber needs.

● Public Hearings into University Affairs—

Inviting submissions from persons or organizations, the special survey committee inquiring into university affairs will give public hearings, Nov. 12 and 13 in the Legislative Buildings. Making the announcement, H. H. Parlee, K. C., said a great deal of material has been submitted by sub-committees, but "the committee would also like to receive notification from persons or organizations who propose to make personal submissions at the public hearings. This will enable us to give the parties an hour at which they are likely to be heard." It is hoped to submit a final report to the Government by February 1st.

● Japan has raised cigarette taxes from seven to 40 per cent and cigar taxes from 60 to 100 per cent.

School Fair Meeting

At a meeting of teachers and parents interested in the School Fair, held Wednesday evening in the High School, there were no seats left, and an interesting discussion of the merits of carrying on took place. There seemed to be no evidence that anyone thought of dropping the Fair, and a motion was made to organize committees to carry on and to redraft the prize list for the ensuing year. The full group comprises Misses M. Smith, M. G. Gordon, J. Barber, J. Smith, E. M. Schofield, M. D. Robertson, R. MacLachlan, and Messrs. I. MacKenzie, J. Crellin, S. H. Crowther, N. P. Bragg, P. E. Sarsons, J. Harwood, A. Peterson and a clearing committee of W. Hartell, N. P. Bragg, Art Hay and S. H. Crowther.

The committees were asked to have their lists completed as soon as might be in order that the teachers might get their work under way forthwith. Present at the meeting was Mr. Whitbread, Provincial agronomist who outlined for group the steps in the organization and the carrying on of a calf club, and also of grain clubs and lesser information regarding poultry. Either a calf club or grain club might easily be incorporated into the work of the school fair, and could function as a part of it, or quite individually. The calf club, he explained, is a six months project, and means starting in the fall with a young calf, and feeding it throughout the winter. Generally, the buyers are present at the judging in early June, and the juniors of the club have an opportunity to turn their animal over on the spot. No effort is made, he said, to encourage fancy stock, as sheldes is more to show what can be done in the commercial field. After all, said Mr. Whitbread, this is where the junior expects to make his living.

Four other calf clubs are organizing this fall, he stated. The indications here seem to be favorable, he said,—the juniors now are the uncertain question. They would all have to be interviewed and visited periodically. It helps a lot, he felt, when the junior sees that an adult is taking some interest in his animal, and it also helps to keep him acquainted with how some of the other competitors are progressing; all of which maintains enthusiasm and helps reach the ultimate aim. About twenty members would be required in order to organize. In connection with the livestock exhibits at the school fair next year, there was a suggestion that better gens to ribe poultry might go far to improve matters for the exhibitor, for the judge and for the spectator. The stated that guaranteed the same response as had been received this year, he would undertake to see that there were suitable and sufficient pens.

Another question raised was whether or not it might be in the best point of education to see that the children who were relatively close to Calgary should get in to the stock shows there at least once a year, in order that they might learn more of the proper way of handling and exhibiting stock. This suggestion was enthusiastically endorsed, though it was pointed out that the only power to grant such a holiday lay in the hands of the various school boards. A committee was appointed also to look into the possibilities of reviving the oratorical contest, and consists of Mrs. Robertson, Mr. Bragg, and Mr. Crellin.

OTTAWA SPOTLIGHT

(Weekly Review of National Affairs)

By M. McDougall

Ottawa, Nov. 6th— The atmosphere in which the new parliamentary session has met here in Ottawa is different from that of previous wartime sessions. Not only on government front benches but along the opposition front benches and dotted throughout the house are members who have visited Britain during the parliamentary recess. For them the iron curtain of war has been rolled up. They have seen war's ravages in cities and towns, and have talked with those who have suffered and who face the menace of the future with such unflinching courage. They have felt the heat of the blaze in their faces where previously they have only dimly seen the smoke of war from across the Atlantic. This session may be a short one, but it is certain to be an important and businesslike one, stripped of partisan politics and with the single aim of furthering the war effort. Realism will hold the floor of the house and inside and outside parliament, the members who have visited Britain and discussed the situation with leaders in government and the armed forces may be expected to do their utmost to drive home the truth of the war and its issues to the heart and conscience of the Canadian people.

General Outlook—

Shortly before the opening of parliament minister of labor Norman McLarty with departmental officials attended an international labor meeting in New York where postwar labor problems were discussed. A few days before, minister of munitions and supply, C. D. Howe visited Washington to make sure that Canadian war industry particularly ship construction which is rapidly forging ahead will get its full quota of steel and other metals from American priority officials. Word was given out that the prime minister intended to pay President Roosevelt a personal visit over the weekend. It is geography which interlocks the economy of the two countries, but it is the growing appreciation of common danger to all democracies which links Britain, Canada and the United States. As Churchill once said of the intermingling of interests, "Let it roll on" and as Thorson, minister of war services asked a Windsor audience a few days ago—"Is it too much to hope that before it is too late our partnership may be merged into a great union of the remaining free nations of the world?" The hour-glass has run out too far to make us hide any longer the depths and scope of our wishes for aid from the United States.

South America Favors Democracies—

A very encouraging report of Canada's relations with South American countries was given by minister of trade and commerce, MacKinnon when he returned with other members of his trade mission from their Southern tour. What was particularly cheerful news, in view of sometimes disturbing accounts of Nazi infiltration, was that he found the "overwhelming" sentiment of South American people in favor of the democracies in the world struggle. There had been a great change in sentiment in the past three months. The minister brought word of the signing of trade treaties under "most favored nation" terms with Brazil, Argentina, Chile and Ecuador with removal of surtaxes and exchange restrictions which had been in force against Canada in some of the Southern countries. With shipping troubles and the "overwhelming" sentiment of South American people in favor of the democracies in the world struggle, there wasn't much hope for great results from the Trade treaties until the end of the war, but the basis was laid for post-war commercial relations.

Wartime Control Board—

The Wartime Prices and Trade Board is marching straight forward with its plan to put the new price control system into operation on November 17th. This has been described as the "greatest task ever placed on a Canadian government board," and few could be found to question that statement. The appointment of E. G. Burton of Toronto as Administrator of Retail Trade is the first of a series of appointments under the plan. It will be a complicated machinery, as the prime minister said when he outlined the blanket control, but the experience of the board and the character of its personnel assure the Canadian people that the program will be carried out with foresight and steadfastness.

At the time of writing the announcement is awaited of the personnel of the National War Labor Board, which will administer the new wage control system. The duties of this board and the five regional labor boards which will assist it, were outlined by the minister of labor in a press interview and a broadcast. The plan differs little from the policy which the labor department attempted to put into effect by persuasion. Now it has become mandatory. It is a necessary part of the control system, and its success like that of price control depends on the cooperation of the Canadian people.

As the prime minister said recently this is true of the whole war effort. It can only be as big "as the amount of cooperation put into it by the people of Canada."

The most vital perhaps of all questions which will be discussed in parliament will be how to make the most effective use of the man and woman power of Canada. It is the persistent and pressing problem. Its existence implies no criticism of the wonderful effort that Canada has been making, but it does imply the immediate recognition by all Canadians that this is a war which demands the utmost in sacrifice and effort of every citizen.

Home-Made Electric Fence Units

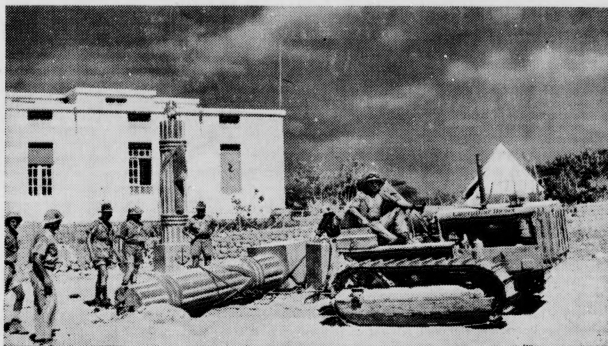

Experimental Farm News

An electric fence unit can be made from a Model T. Ford coil to operate temporary fence lines on the farm. These units are easily made, inexpensive, and are operated from a six volt car battery or a six volt dry cell.

The home-made electric fence unit constructed at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, consists of a coil, a light strap iron standard and a swinging bar to make and break the electric circuit. The standard is made of 1-8 inch strap iron, is mounted on the posts of the coil which ordinarily hold the brass vibrator cover plate, and extends above the coil to support a swinging bar or contact pendulum. This unit on a six volt battery will operate one to five miles of fence.

Electric fence units must for the sake of safety be operated from batteries. Never attempt to operate a fence unit from a 110 volt or 32 volt line as such a unit is very dangerous. A six volt car battery will operate almost any type of fence unit for more than eight weeks, but charging of the battery is recommended at 60 day intervals.

REMEMBRANCE DAY — 1941
"LEST WE FORGET" "WE CANNOT FORGET"

SUNDAY, November 9th throughout Canada will be commemorated the Command to "Cease Fire" that was given in Europe in that year of our Lord 1918 at 11 o'clock on the 11th day of the 11th month. With what joy and gratitude we heard the word!

Now in November 1941 we commemorate the memory of those who fell and as well pay tribute to those who returned to carry on life in a world they and we hoped was forever free of the curse of war.

Today what a tragic travesty it seems. Our hearts are torn with fear and dismay, not knowing the awful cost Victory will entail.

Win we must and shall.
Life lived under a Hitler governed world would not be life or living—it would be as General Sherman said of the war, H—L.

Further man was created for a greater destiny and he will not have achieved his complete role, until the precepts of The Messiah are more fully lived.

Then and only then "When His is done on Earth even as it is in Heaven," will mankind have attained unto the Status for which he was created.

How far the road? Alas—or how rough the going we know not.

Only to serve and do his utmost, is the duty of each individual to help usher in the day when the sword shall be sheathed — and mankind shall dwell in peace, each nation with the other.

Better Roads Will Bring Better Business Conditions

ANNUAL meetings of the A. M. A. are to be held this month in Edmonton, Calgary and Lethbridge.

It has been said so often that a big Tourist Traffic would be one of Alberta's largest harvests. We have the scenery, the sporting opportunities and the climate—

All we need is good roads.

It would be promoting business of the most desirable kind to have roads such that would attract tourists, from Eastern Canada and from every State in the Union.

We endorse the purpose of the A. M. A. in their attempt to induce the Government to earmark for Good Road Building the $7,000,000 taxes paid by motorists in 1940, etc.

It would be a "bait" invested that would return many fold.

Mr N. G. Robinson suffered slight injuries to the shoulder, arm and leg, and a nasty gash in his neck while operating the tractor and cultivator on his farm last week. Hallowe'en was the occasion of some excitement round Carseland. In the early evening several groups of youngsters made their usual rounds to the various homes and were hospitably entertained at most places with the usual treats. Later in the evening the bigger boys were round playing their usual pranks, some of which were not altogether appreciated by some of the citizens.

The services at the United Church are now being held regularly in the evening at 8 p.m. and are being well attended. Last Sunday evening the service was specially in the interests of the young people. There were quite a number present and at a meeting following the service, it was decided to re-organize the Young Peoples' Soc-

A farewell dance for Mr and Mrs Walter Wilde who left for their farm near Okotoks was held last Thursday in the Hall. Presentations were made by Mr Colin Bark, to Mrs Wilde, a gas iron and to Mr Wilde, a pocket knife. There were about 100 present.

A shower was held last Wednesday at the home of Mrs Lee in honor of Mrs K. Stewart, a recent bride. There was a large number of friends present. The gifts were presented by the hostess, the bride making a grateful acknowledgment. Miss Hilda Thiel played two violin solos accompanied by Mrs Blair Field which were well received. A delicious lunch was served and all enjoyed a very happy social hour.

A reorganization of the Y. P. S. was held in the school room. There were nearly 30 young people present. Election of officers were as follows: President, Martin Christensen, Jr; Secretary, Eric Barlow; Convenor Social Committee, Miss Gillanders; Convenor Dramatic Committee, Mr McKenzie; Convenor Debating Committee, Louis McKinnon. The meetings will be held every two weeks on Wednesday. Following business, various games and lunch completed a successful evening.

When the problem of supporting schools arises, there are, in every community a substantial number of people who are quite ready to turn against modern school practices and who bring forth arguments to show that the ways of teaching in their youth were much superior to those of the present.

Yet seriously to attempt to impose the kind of teaching that was done in 1911 in 1941 is as futile as to attempt to abolish automobiles in favor of horses and buggies, to silence all radios, to abolish all chain stores, or to tear up all concrete highways.

ROCKYFORD

— By K. M. G. —

We have been meted out an extra fine type of weather for several weeks which has made it possible to wind up all harvest and get the fall work in general, well under way before a winter freeze up. Even the road work which had been undertaken earlier in the season and now most of the roads are high enough to defy the snow and drifts of many storms.

Mr W. T. Rudd, Sr. underwent a serious operation on his eye last Wednesday and came through it quite well. He will be under the Doctor's care for some time yet. On Thursday, Mrs Rudd, Sr. had the misfortune to fall on the polished floor and fractured a small bone in her ankle. We hope they will both have speedy recovery.

Two of our Air Force boys Mr Fred Knight of St. Thomas, Ont. and Edwin Dragg of Edmonton were home for short leaves the last week.

Mrs C. A. Smith has returned from an extended stay in California and will probably spend considerable time visiting her son and many friends.

Mr Bert Wyman was involved in a rather serious accident on Friday last near Schuler, Alta., when his two companions had a fractured leg each, while he suffered a bad forehead cut. He is now at home under the care of his sister Mrs Allen, who is a registered nurse. Mrs Allan is also in charge of her father's hand, which had become infected again from a former injury.

Mr and Mrs Stone have as their company over the week end, his sister and her husband Mr and Mrs Geo. MacDonald of Vancouver, who are returning from a trip to the east.

A goodly number of Rockyford people took in the Rosebud United Church Chicken Supper and program on Wednesday last and report a good evening.

LEGION NOTES

LETTER FROM HAROLD FREEMAN

Harold Freeman in a recent letter tells how things go in the land of the "Blitz". "We are moving quite often now, so I don't get time to be bored with one place before we are off to another. Various maneuvers, squad drill and first aid training let alone gas drill, aircraft recognition, lectures, sports, etc. fill our time pretty well. I forgot to mention that we go for a 20 mile route march two days a week. I am getting fairly well acquainted with southern England up to as far as Leicester. I have been to Brighton, Cardiff, Bristol, all along the coast let alone numerous of the smaller seaside resorts.

Have been up to Leicester two or three times on leave but never got up as far as Scotland yet. I was going to tell you about the food but I expect you know more about army food than I do. However we are not starved but sadly lacking in variety. Our main vegetable seems to be cabbage and just boiled in water. You can grow very tired of it. I can hardly look a cabbage in the face anymore. The rest of our food is wholesome but due to the salt rationing, etc., is very tasteless. Usually if we are not broke we jump on a bus and go to a cafe or canteen. Our quarters so far have been satisfactory. As a rule we have taken over large country houses, some of them miniature palaces. We still sleep on our straw pallets though on the floor. Myself, I have bought a rubber air mattress which is not quite so hard on my bones. You see I am still no fatter than I was. I am sure these English people must be cold blooded as fish because the houses would take a fortune to heat. We are having mist every day now up to about noon when it clears up and usually turns quite warm and sunny.

Air raids are scarce. Have only heard the siren once in three or four months and then we didn't have any action. Most of the fellows here are longing for the day when we can get some action. The Lord knows when that will be. I believe the war has another year or two ahead of it. yet Say hello to all the folks.

Thrift BUILDS TANKS

Never before has individual thrift been so vital a factor in our country's history. Every dollar we can save counts in the conduct of this war.

To overwhelm the enemy and hasten a victorious peace the Empire must have modern, smooth running, hard hitting, fighting machine. But such a machine cannot be built without individual sacrifice—self denial—thrift.

Until this war is won make personal thrift your watchword. Watch your spending. Build up a reserve of fighting dollars out of current earnings. Save for victory.

EDUCATION ADOPTS BOY SCOUT
TRAINING METHODS

It is difficult to realize how much education owes to the genius of Baden-Powell. Many of the ideas he put into practice in 1908 were then almost revolutionary; today they are common-places of teaching methods. His pioneer work in training boys has had an influence far beyond that of the movement which he founded.—Journ-

MR. ILSLEY POPULAR TAX GATHERER

Grattan O'Leary, writing in a magazine, says that the Hon. C. G. Power is the only minister who has grown in stature since the war started. One would agree if Mr O'Leary were speaking only of the war departments, for neither Col. Ralston nor Mr MacDonald looms any larger on the political horizon today than they did before they assumed the other two portfolios in the area of defence.

There is one minister who has steadily grown in public esteem, yet who easily could have become, by the nature of his job, the most unpopular of all. The allusion is to the Minister of Finance. Mr Ilsley was virtually an unknown back-bencher prior to his becoming Minister of National Revenue in 1935. In that necessary though thankless position he won the respect of his subordinates who were accustomed to ministers who seldom bothered to learn what their departmental duties were.

As Minister of Finance, succeeding Col. Ralston, Mr Ilsley has shown in the course of two or three years an ability to learn. In his earlier months in the office he perhaps was inclined to take too much advice from academic underlings, but in course of time he has become master of the job himself. Today what the Finance Department does, for good or ill, is on the minister's own determination. He may get as much advice as formerly. But now he knows whether or not to take it.

This is fine for the nation. But unfortunately, an ability to perform a job well does not invariably result in popularity. Our opinion is that Mr Ilsley's growth in public esteem, despite the enormous load of taxation he has put upon us, is due to the feeling that, above all, Mr Ilsley tries to be fair. If there has been discrimination against any economic class, it is against the income group in which the Minister of Finance personally belongs.

Lest the reader conclude that we have lost our ability to see the faults of office holders, it is hastily added that we think Mr Ilsley has one grievous fault, which grows from his virtues. This is a tendency for him to become so engrossed in the administration of his own department that he pays not enough attention to what is going on in other departments. That this is a condition apparently encouraged by Mr King makes it no less a defect of government.

Mr Ilsley, at the moment absorbed in the imperative task of curtailing private spending that more of our resources may be available for war, has never, so far as can be discerned, interfered with the affairs of other departments to the extent of preventing waste in non-war expenditures of public funds. It requires the defence tax of many thousands of poorly paid wage earners to continue the toll of building the Montreal terminal.

—THE PRINTED WORD.

BRITISH INVASION?

So much is being said in the press, over the radio and by individuals as to whether Germany will attempt a British Invasion, that we felt the following article from The Lethbridge
 Herald is illuminating.

GERMANY WILL TRY—

Prime Minister Winston Churchill has insisted in broadcast after broadcast that the Germans will try an invasion of Britain. He believed it would come before the middle of September this year. It hasn't come yet, but that is no reason to believe that it will not be tried. Observers state that the opinion is fixed in Germany that what has been done in Crete can be done in Britain, even though it may mean the loss of a million or more men.

It is said that a neutral silk manufacturer who left Germany recently told of the Germans making a million parachutes for the attempted invasion of the British Isles.

The story, of course, may be of whole cloth, put out for the purpose of diverting Britain from any invasion of the continent. But, on the other hand, the Germans have a one track mind. Hitler has said Britain will be invaded, and if he orders it the attempt will be made. What matters a million or two men's lives if the purpose could be accomplished?

What would be the chance of success? What is there in the defences of Britain that was not present in the defences of Crete? Could parties of German parachutists so demoralize British communications that defending troops might be immobilized?
Could Britain counter with invasion forces, backed by superior naval forces, in the waters between Britain and the continent and by equality or better in the air, cutting behind the German invasion operating bases and demoralizing the parachute efforts?

There is no doubt that Britain, with well equipped regular armies in their home terrain, with well based air forces on strongly defended air ports,
and with immense sea superiority,
could wipe out millions of Germans before they could get set to do great damage, unsupported as they would be by artillery and tanks of any great strength. It would be slaughter.
Instead of a million parachutes it would require more like 10,000,000.

As we said, we doubt if the Nazis will try it, but Hitler has promised it, and the lives of a few million men mean nothing to him. If Moscow falls, and if Russian resistance should be broken, watch out for an invasion.

A SAUCEPAN TIN HAT SAW THIS BOY SCOUT THROUGH THE SHEFFIELD BLITZ

The lack of a "tin hat" did not keep 16 year old Boy Scout John Flinn indoors during Sheffield's most serious
"blitz." He improvised one with a saucepan padded with a duster, and dashed off for the Warden Post to which he was attached. He was one of the first on the scene following a nearby explosion, and dealt successfully with several incendiary bombs and a fractured gas main. An injured woman was awaiting an ambulance, and Flinn, seeing she was in danger from falling shell fragments, secured a grocer's barrow and in this wheeled her to the comparative safety of his Post. During a lull in the bombing Scout Flinn dashed home to re-assure his parents of his safety, and arrived just in time to deal with a fire there.
This out, he dashed back to his Warden Post.

WORLD'S WEEK

BY HAROLD L. WEIR

Associate Editor and Daily Columnist of the Edmonton Bulletin

Displaying the usual seal of each successive Japanese administration to wind up the Chinese affair, the Tojo government is planning a drive to bring all of the Hankow-Peking railway within Japan's grip.

On the basis of latest intelligence reports, it is revealed that the Japanese moved 14,000 infantrymen and 400 cavalrymen, plus tanks and artillery, northward from Hankow in the second week of October, and pushed another 5,000 troops up the Yangtze to Hankow. This may foreshadow a drive northward from Sinyang and southward from Chengchow in an effort to take over the only remaining gap (about 150 miles in length) in the Hankow-Peking railway.

Coincident with this information Foreign Minister Dr. Quo Tai-Chi at a press conference warned against the "increasingly aggressive character of the Tojo cabinet" in Tokyo and declared that it would be an error for any of the anti-aggression nations to be lulled into a false sense of security.

It is safe to assume now that Japan's new government will make further aggressive moves. The time has come when we must regard the next Japanese attack not only as against the country immediately affected but against all countries who are resisting aggression. Japan must not be allowed, as Germany was allowed on the continent of Europe, to deal with her victims one by one.

Undoubtedly Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox was speaking as a realist when he said that an American-Japanese collision was virtually inevitable if Japan continued its present policy. This remark applies with equal force to other powers whose interests may be threatened by Japanese aggression.

A sign that Finland may be weakening in its alliance with Hitler is seen in the fact that Finnish circles are undertaking to differentiate between the military and political aims of the Russian war.

There is no Finnish enthusiasm for conquest, the news makes clear. The Finnish argument is that the defense and security of Finland's boundaries makes the present moves against Russian territory necessary.

The disposition of Finnish occupied areas depends upon the peace negotiations and remains a political problem. There are no indications, however, that such a formula is acceptable to the British and Americans who warned Finland that it would be considered an enemy power if it advanced beyond its 1939 borders.

The peril hanging over Moscow has been in no wise lessened by the reduced tempo of the German offensive.

Soviet reports from scattered sectors on that front show that the German commander-in-chief, Field Marshal Fedor Von Bock, is taking advantage of the lull to retooling his machine for a new and final effort.

For some days the German stabs have been concentrated against isolated points of great strategic importance to the Reich which might be utilized as advance bases for the next phase of the drive on the Soviet capital.

Daily Nazi efforts to air blitz Moscow as well as countryside formations on the city's lines of communication—in face of the spirited opposition of Russia's overtaxed air force—also point to the German determination to force the issue before weather and Soviet consolidation increase the difficulties of the task.

The stage is now being feverishly set by both sides for a decisive phase. Moscow and its environs meanwhile have become a mass of troops and armed civilians.

Barrier after barrier is being laid at the approaches with the labor of tens of thousands of hastily mobilized civilian workers.

The city is part of the front under rigid military law and violators of regulations are being summarily dealt with.

The newspapers have laconically recorded the executions of several directors of Moscow enterprises who gave way to panic and closed their factories without authority.

There is the story of a manager and his assistant who were sentenced to death by shooting for trying to desert their posts.

The Moscow population has been warned through the press to watch ceaselessly for spies, saboteurs and rumor-mongers sometimes disguised in Red army uniforms.

The Strathmore Standard invites its readers to listen to The Saturday

75c BONUS ON HALF ACREAGE

Agriculture Minister James Gardiner has announced that the new acreage bonus will be on 75 cts. an acre on half the cultivated area on any one farm. This is in addition to any bonuses received under the P. F. A. A. No farmer may get the bonus on more than 200 acres. To those farmers coming under the P. F. A. A. through crop failures, the new bonus will be automatically added to the other bonus.

All other farmers however, will be required to put in their application to the municipal secretary of their district. In case of unorganized territory, the application goes direct to the provincial officer in charge.

It is said that this bonus of 75 cts. an acre will give $6,000,000 additional revenue to Alberta farmers.

It will give western farmers generally about $20,000,000 more than under previous arrangement.

Through crop difficulties western grain revenue is said to be $70,000,000 short of last year, despite the new bonus.

Some Salient Facts Regarding The Oil Situation In Canada

By E. F. Lambert, Public Relations Representative of the Oil Controller For Canada

Canadians, now in the third year of war, are just beginning to feel the economic pinch that Britons overseas have had to endure long since. The SOS signals of sinking oil steamers at last are echoing significantly in Canada. Also, we are realizing there are reasons other than the well authenticated threat of an oil shortage, why we should do with less and less supplies of motor gasoline. It may surprise Canadian motorists to hear that this nation leads the world in the average mileage achieved by motor cars. Second place for 1940 is taken by the United States with an average of 7,800 miles per car. Canada's figure is 9,949 miles per car.

Viewed as an integral part of the whole economic picture in Canada, it can be readily understood that, apart from any existing war priority requirements for oil and its products, motor gasoline must be regarded more and more in the light of a commodity to be purchased sparingly, as other commodities must be, in order that this nation may be geared for the maximum effort required to win the war.

Priorities having been mentioned, it is significant to note that on October 9th, 1941, the Oil Controller for Canada, in the course of a public address, announced a priorities list for crude oil and certain of its products.

In the order of their importance, Canada must have—

- 1—Crude Oil (Vital raw material).
- 2—Aviation Gasoline (First run of the crude).
- 3—Light and Heavy Fuel Oils.
- 4—Motor Gasoline.

TOWN COUNCIL

Council were through in lots of time to hear Texaco Tuesday night, after finishing an agenda that had been accumulating for a month. The meeting two weeks ago was unable to obtain a quorum, hence had to be called off.

In the absence of Councillors Haddon and Woodliffe, both members of the Fire and Light committee, Councillor Quirin and Mayor Hughes agreed to take over the offices connected with that committee for the duration of this term.

Resignation of Councillor Woodliffe was read and accepted with regret, and a letter drafted expressing the thanks of the Council, for his help in the past.

No action was considered necessary following a question regarding a hay stack in town. The stack is within the requirements of the bylaw.

The Financial Statement was read and showed the town's cash position to be $1700 better than at the same time last year. The grant to the Red Cross for rent is to be renewed until the end of the term of the present council, which is next February. A relief grant was increased by one dollar, per month. Questions arising regarding pensions were brought up, and until further definite points can be brought out, nothing further can be done.

A proposal was received from an outside source to place waste bins on the streets, with advertising on the four sides, the advertising to take care of all expenses and to be secured by the owner, the town's only responsibility being to see to the emptying of them. A discussion followed, and it was moved that permission be granted to place two of them on Main St., one outside the Post Office, where there is generally a large accumulation of rubbish, and the second to be placed on the opposite side of the street, in a similar position. A satisfactory arrangement for the collection of garbage in apparently difficult situations was arranged for, and the Council hopes that the garbage situation is now rather well in hand.

Following a complaint concerning bicycles on the sidewalks, the Council decided to take steps to eliminate the trouble, and is trying to secure some definite commitment.

Since there has been no opportunity to impound livestock running at large owing to lack of a pound, Council inquired into the situation, and will report at a later date.

Taking a poll on the roadwork done recently, the consensus of opinions seems to be that the work is well done and well worth doing.

The pump at the Town Hall was reported in rather poor repair, and the handyman was delegated to look into the matter on some day when work outside is impractical.

Accounts amounting to $120 were passed.

CHEADLE

by L. McL.

"No flowers, no bees,
No birds, no trees,
No vember."

Misses Lieta and Verna Barber, Renee and Jeanette Dun spent the week end with their parents.

LAC. S. Hawkins was guest of honor at a party at the home of Mr and Mrs George Jackson. Twenty-eight guests were present to congratulate LAC. Hawkins who will soon graduate from No. 2 Wireless. After a number of very entertaining games, a lovely lunch was served. The guest of honor was presented with an initialed travelling case in Air Force Blue.

The W. W. held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs Lee Welshmer. It was very well attended.

Sgt. Pilot R. Dunn and his mother Mrs Cramer left Sunday evening for Montreal where they will visit a few days. Sgt. Dunn then leaves for Halifax to await embarkation.

Don't forget the dance in Cheadle November 7th or the Chicken Supper and Social evening on November 12th.
